

SENATOR VICKERS: Mr. President, I guess I would I would like to ask Senator DeCamp a question or two if he would.

SENATOR CARSTEN: Senator DeCamp, will you answer a question, please.

SENATOR DECAMP: Very easy.

SENATOR VICKERS: Senator, did I understand you to say that the amendment strikes all of the sections of the bill and reinserts totally new language? Is that correct?

SENATOR DECAMP: The original sections of the bill have already been passed into law in LB 609 and they were consolidated in the UCC bill and so it doesn't need those so I am striking those physically and putting this amendment in, yes.

SENATOR VICKERS: Okay, the new language that requires the county clerks to enter into the centralized computer system information, is that going to be a problem for some county clerks that may not have computer access or computers themselves? How do they do that?

SENATOR DECAMP: They all have that access. That is what I was saying earlier to Senator Smith. The entire system has now been officially turned over from the council that was created and set up. It has now officially been certified and turned over to the Secretary of State and they all have this. I also was amazed to learn that.

SENATOR VICKERS: Each county has a computer that they can tap into, is that it, or just through the telephone, or what?

SENATOR DECAMP: Each county has the terminal and it accesses into that central computer. Does that make sense?

SENATOR VICKERS: Well, it makes sense if...I am surprised, I didn't know they all had it, but...

SENATOR DECAMP: When I proposed this whole idea, I didn't know it worked either, nor did Wiley. We promised a lot and amazingly enough they came through which surprises even me. Set up, they did it and actually did something that we said was going to happen. That is why it is a little surprising to me that we are not going to use it, apparently, but then what the
